

THE HOME, ITS PROBLEMS AND INTERESTS

FROCKS AND FRILLS
FOR SMART DRESSERS

Notwithstanding the millinery preparations it is open to doubt whether the long pendant veil as a veil will have any appreciation among the really fashionable people. The chances are that it will not, but many of the pendant additions worn by the followers of this mode are made in lace and descend from the head to well below the knees, recalling a Spanish mantilla. This is not likely to attain any great following in the modes for daily wear.

This inkling of fashion has, however, been the cause of any number of new patterns in veillings. Graduated chenille spots in black and white, hemmed or bordered with lace, and gauze of various kinds with large tufts upon them, and fine nets with handsome lace motifs, all these are used. The silk gauzes for motorizing will wash like a glove, but the fashionable veil trailing at the back wants a good deal of wearing.

Most of the very chic gowns worn by brides at weddings are made of a transparent material, such as silk, muslin, or chiffon, or an entire lace gown over several layers of chiffon, with a distinct lace train. At one or two weddings lately the bridesmaids have been attired in lace, while the majority of the guests would seem to affect black lace over white, or a rich make of peau de sole trimmed with antique laces, and young and old alike seem to be wearing hats, the bridesmaids all do, and the headgear of the mother of the bride as often as not closely approaches to a hat. It is curious how many fashionable people now go to weddings freshly dressed in black, with only a bunch of colored flowers in the front of the bodice.

Cheviots, tweeds, summer serges, fine cloths, all these the tailors are immortalizing in shades of brown, blue, green, and gray. Some of the grays are quite Puritanical, and there is nothing so pretty as the white wine tone. Mohairs are being adapted by the tailors for the needs of fashionable women; a great comfort they are for they wear well and look well to the bitter end. The prettiest are plain colors, but they are to be had in pale shades of mauve, blue, pink, green and silver-gray, and mastic tones, suitable to summer.

For the Face.

Too much soap and water is not good for the face; it has a tendency to coarsen the skin and to make it rough. It should be thoroughly washed at night before retiring to rest with a good complexion soap and warm water. All skins cannot stand the same soap, so one or two kinds should be tried, and when a satisfactory make of soap is found it should be continued. In the morning it will be sufficient to bathe the face in cold water, using no soap whatever. If there is a little oil meal may be used. After the nightly wash a little emollient may be rubbed into the skin to prevent roughness, and during the day the face may be kept with the emollient, which should be removed by rubbing the face with dry oatmeal of the finest quality.

Shown here is a dressy waist, made of white lawn, very sheer and soft, trimmed with lace insertion and edging. The yoke and top of sleeves are finely tucked.

NEW DECREES IN DRESS
DETAILS FOR MY LADY

Bodices are more bloused than ever. Girdles are wide and some of them are high.

Hips are tucked, shirred, plaited, and much trimmed.

Eagle and owl heads top some of the new hat pins in silver or gilt.

Rouleaux of satin form one of the fashionable methods of trimming.

Taffeta gowns are to reign supreme this summer, both plain and checked.

Skirts are very round and very full, and the majority of them clear the street.

Tan colored linen, with a touch of sky blue, will be much worn this season.

With canvas and lawn frocks will be worn double, large, spotted canvas and lawn ribbons.

Gold embroidered chine gauze sash ribbons are charming additions to summer costumes.

Ripe apricot, deep raspberry pink, spinach green and coffee brown are color favorites just now.

Stocks are the redeeming feature, for they are not worn very tall and they can be fitted to any throat.

Foremost among the recent fancies comes a spangled fan applique with pearl shell, dyed to every imaginable delicate tint.

Tucks appear upon the hem, from one to two inches deep, and are set crossways on the hips to the depth of an eighth of an inch.

The rage for gold, which has been so marked a feature in Parisian trimmings all the winter, has now given place to one for silver.

One of the most noticeable features with regard to summer evening costumes is the mixture of different laces on the same dress.

The peacock had shown no sign of abating; buckles, hat pins, buttons and dress ornaments of various kinds are decorated with peacock eyes.

Sleeves are immense and most of them are made in open balloons. Others are balloon shaped, closed at the hand, and fitted with a stiff lace cuff which may be slashed or may be closed. Inside the stiff lace cuff there is a soft lingerie cuff.

TURNS AUTO INTO LAKE
TO AVOID COLLISION

Girl Deliberately Risks Her Life to Save Occupants of Carriage—Later Drove Off.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 6.—In order to escape a collision with a carriage last night Miss Bessie Smith, of Bristol, deliberately turned her automobile into a guard rail and drove the machine into White Oak Lake. She was rescued from drowning by her companion, Harold Gwillim, and both secured dry clothes at a gypsy camp near by.

Miss Smith, who is twenty-two, and Mr. Gwillim, were returning from a ride and Miss Smith was running the car. When they reached the causeway, about three miles this side of New Britain, where the main road passes through an arm of the lake, the young woman saw a carriage approaching. The road is narrow and the carriage, instead of turning to the right, headed for the automobile.

Seeing that a collision was inevitable, Miss Smith shut off the power and deliberately headed the car against the rail. The machine plowed through it and plunged into the pond.

Gwillim was thrown some distance, and when he came to the surface he could not see his companion. He dived after her and succeeded in getting her to shore, but much the worse for her experience. The persons in the carriage drove on without offering any assistance.

This morning men dragged the car out of the lake. It was covered with mud.

WILDCAT SKYROCKET
PIERCED WIRT'S SKULL

Secretary of Diamond Match Company Fatally Injured at Home of D. G. Reid.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 6.—Ralph E. Wirt, a Yale graduate, and secretary of the Diamond Match Company, is dying at the country home of D. G. Reid, the millionaire steel manufacturer, at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, as the result of being struck behind the right ear by a skyrocket.

The sharp stick of the rocket penetrated the skull, causing a bad fracture and, it is believed, a fatal injury.

Mr. Reid had a large party of guests at his house on the night of the Fourth of July. There was a display of fireworks, and one of the rockets exploded prematurely.

Mr. Wirt was sitting on the veranda. He fell unconscious. Today Dr. Bull, Dr. Todd, Dr. Irvine, and two other physicians were called in consultation, and it was decided to perform an operation. It is believed that some of the skull bones are pressing on the brain.

CRONJE WEDS ON FAIR GROUNDS.

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—Gen. Piet Cronje, of Boer war fame, was married yesterday to Mrs. Sterzel, widow of a Boer soldier. The ceremony was performed in the Boer camp on the Fair grounds, and was private.

THAT "CHINESE" WALL EXPLAINED BY HUSTON

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 6.—Instead of a "Chinese" wall around the Capitol Park, the height of the proposed coping will be four and one-half feet on Fourth Street and two and one-half feet on Third Street.

These facts were developed at a meeting this afternoon between Joseph M. Huston, of Philadelphia, architect for the new capitol, and designer for the Capitol Park improvements; the board of public improvements and grounds, and a special committee of Harrisburg citizens.

POPE PIUS NOT ILL.

ROME, July 6.—There is no truth in the report circulated in the United States by a news agency that the Pope suffered from an attack of palpitation of the heart this morning.

The heat in Rome this year in unusually suffocating and enervating. All, even the hardened Romans, are complaining. The Pope also feels the heat, but he is enjoying his usual health, and audiences applied to both ministers, the incident is now closed.

TROUBLE WITH HAITI ENDED.

PORT AU PRINCE, July 6.—A dispatch from Port au Prince says that all the soldiers of the palace guard concerned in the recent attack on the French and German ministers have been severely punished, and that, as President Nord in a formal audience apologized to both ministers, the incident is now closed.

REGENTS CHARTER SEMINARY.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 6.—The first Catholic seminary for women to receive a charter under the regents of the University of the State of New York, has just been chartered by that body. It is the new Ursuline Seminary at New Rochelle, to be known as the College of St. Angela, named after the founder of the Ursuline Order.

VAIN SEARCH FOR NEWS OF WIFE.

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—For nearly forty-eight hours J. H. Lamont has been seeking tidings of his wife, Pauline, who was to have left Chicago on the ill-fated White Star train. He has not slept, and his family, too, so constant has been his search. The name of his wife has not appeared on the lists of dead and injured.

BETRAYS FORGER

Arrested in Buenos Ayres; Where She Went.

GOT $25,000. IT IS CHARGED

Pinkerton Detective Boarded the Same Steamer That Mrs. Forbes Took and Caught Bail Jumper.

NEW YORK, July 6.—According to a cablegram received from detectives of the Pinkerton Agency at Buenos Ayres, Charles E. Forbes, alias Irving W. Humphrey, has been arrested on a charge of obtaining under false pretenses upward of $25,000 from banks in this city.

Forbes, who will be brought to this city as soon as the extradition papers are signed, was arrested here last December by Assistant Superintendent Dougherty, of the Pinkerton agency, and Detective Moloney, of the Church Street station, in the office of the W. Cole Company, where he was employed as a bookkeeper.

Forbes' Perceptions.

In June, 1933, it is alleged, Forbes, through an introduction, opened an account at the Spring Street branch of the Corn Exchange Bank. He subsequently deposited a number of checks payable to the G. W. Cole Company and apparently endorsed by them to him.

Last December the Corn Exchange Bank became suspicious of the Forbes account, and it was investigated. The result was the arrest of Forbes, who acknowledged that he had forged the endorsement of the checks in the name of the treasurer of the Cole Company, J. Noah H. Sie.

In January Forbes was indicted for forgery in the second degree on five different counts. Bail for $5,000 was furnished by L. F. Carroll, of Brooklyn. When the case was set for trial, however, Forbes failed to appear.

Trailed Forbes' Wife.

The Pinkerton Agency found Forbes' wife in Brooklyn. At about the same time it was learned that she had taken passage for Buenos Ayres on the Merchant Prince. A Pinkerton detective followed, looking a passage on the same steamer.

The Merchant Prince arrived in Buenos Ayres on June 25, and Mrs. Forbes joined her husband at a hotel there. This movement was reported by cable to the New York office of the Pinkerton agency, with the result that arrangements were immediately made through the State Department at Washington and the United States minister at Buenos Ayres for the arrest of the man pending the arrival of an officer with extradition papers.

On December 30, 1937, the same man was arrested while attempting to pass a forged check on a Midland Lane Jeweler. He was later sentenced to Elmira Reformatory, where he served three years.

Forbes, who is about thirty years of age, formerly lived at 408 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn.

BATHING SUIT CAMPAIGN ON.

ASBURY PARK, July 6.—Orders were issued to the beach squad yesterday by Mayor Ten Broeck directing that in the future bathers wearing inefficient bath robes be ordered from the beach. The police enforced the orders this morning by rounding up 120 call bathers, whose bathing suits were somewhat abbreviated.

FOR CAUSE OF LOVE
YOUTH ENDS HIS LIFE

Sweetheart Unresponsive, He Drank Carbolio Acid and Died in Great Agony.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—"I fought for love; for love I die," Joseph Landow, eighteen years old, of 115 Pine Street, concluded a farewell note to Bessie Leichter in these words last night and then took carbolio acid. He died in agony half an hour afterward.

Landow had been with Miss Leichter yesterday afternoon. He told her he intended to kill himself because she loved her and felt she did not love him. Loss of employment and family troubles, he said, added to his misery. She chided him for his folly and took a bottle of carbolio acid from him.

When he left her at 6 o'clock he went to a drug store, bought the poison he afterward used, went home, and wrote the farewell letter.

Miss Leichter returned from a trolley trip at 11 o'clock last night. She faintly when told of Landow's death.

LIGHTNING FIRES
WILKESBARRE CHURCH

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 6.—A rain-storm, accompanied by a severe electrical display, broke over this city and valley last night. It was the heaviest thunder storm of the year. The streets here were flooded for a time. On the west side of the Susquehanna River telephone and electric light systems were put out of commission for some time.

The Bennett Street Presbyterian Church, at Luzerne borough, was struck by lightning, and the tower was set on fire, but the rain extinguished the flames before serious damage was done.

BENEDICT'S YACHT NOT HURT.

GREENWICH, Conn., July 6.—Commander E. C. Benedict has arrived at Indian Harbor on his yacht Oneida, after a cruise with Grover Cleveland eastward. The boat was in no way damaged by running on Blank Island two days ago, as she merely went up on the sand.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE
IN SWEETHEART'S ARMS

Girl of Seventeen Resents Mother's Admonitions by Drinking Carbolio Acid.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 6.—Because her mother scolded her for keeping company with Frank Herring, a young man of West New Rochelle, pretty seventeen-year-old Margaret Taylor, the daughter of Robert Taylor, of New Rochelle, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by drinking carbolio acid and will probably die.

Miss Taylor, after a quarrel with her mother yesterday morning because she went to a church fair the day before, Herring, left home. She went directly to the home of Herring, where she drank the contents of an ounce bottle of acid and then threw herself in her sweetheart's arms to die.

The Herring family worried over her and, finding that she was in a serious condition, had her removed to her home, in Webster Avenue. The girl had been keeping company with Herring about six months and it is said they intended to get married.

HUSBAND AWAY, WIFE AND BABIES DESTITUTE

READING, Pa., July 6.—Since June 22 Mrs. Maurice P. Matland has been making every possible effort to find her husband, who left home on that day and said he would return in half an hour.

The woman has been left in destitute circumstances, and her two little children, who are in need of the necessities of life.

Matland was in his shirt sleeves when he left the house, 20 Hudson Street, and the wife believes he did not, at the time, intend to desert her.

IN LOVE'S EMBRACE.
TWO CHILDREN DIE

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, July 6.—Olvin Gray and Lucy Pine, children of farmers of Union county, S. D., took strychnine, and died in each other's arms. Their union was not approved by their parents.

SHOP NOTES.

Very fetching robe patterns of cotton duck, embroidered in openwork designs, for—well, the price of two pairs of gloves.

Dainty and wonderfully cool-looking sacques of white muslin, embroidered all around collar, sleeves, and down the fronts, and tying with narrow white satin ribbon, for which less than a dollar is asked.

Such a pretty Japanese kimono of pale pink silk sprayed all over with purple wistarias done in silks.

There are long kimonos and morning gowns of white dotted muslin, too, which look as if they possessed cool and restful possibilities.

You don't have to pay quite $2 for an umbrella—any color—that will keep off both sun and rain. And it is done up in the smartest kind of checked, striped, or plain cover to match.

This is the festive time when summer hats are marked down. The woman who buys now possesses herself of a creditable piece of headwear for perhaps $5, and rejoices in the knowledge that the same thing would have cost her $10 or even $15 a couple of months ago.

Shirtwaist suits also show the mid-season waning of value. A plainly-made white linen in a good shape heralds itself at $5. It looks really smart on the lifeless lady in the window.

How anyone can put forth such shabby little suits of checked silk, taffeta, and foulard for the sums tacked to these stylish costumes is a mystery to the lay mind. But the lay mind needs only to be thankful and invest.

Blouses of china silk, tucked, or inset with lace, or both, begin at something less than $2. In the special sales of mused and otherwise reduced blouses real bargains are shown, in silk, linen, and the sheer sorts.

In girls' ready-made clothing there are pretty dresses of pongee in natural and soft gray tints, trimmed with shirring, buttons, and made in good style.

Simpler dresses come in silky mohair in light colors. Their style is admirable.

Housewives who suffer from the ever recurring nuisance of dull knives will be interested in a grinding machine which does the work at home. Drawing a knife a few times through the slots in the cap gives it, it is said, a keen cutting edge. The mechanism consists of two grinding wheels, one under each slot, and set at the proper angle. The makers claim for the grinder that it will wear for years, and that, unlike the sharpening steel, it will not injure the knife.

Stiffenings are getting very stiff—in body, not in price. Crinolines of all weights and kinds are seen. They range from 8 to 12½ cents a yard, and are to be had in black, white, and slate color. The shrunk linen crinoline for interlining jackets and skirts comes in white, black, and natural color, at 20 cents the yard. For underlacing there is linen scrim at 12½ cents the yard.

Latest in veils is the golet, a name suggesting the golet founce. This is cut in a new circular founce shape, and comes in many different sorts of veiling.

New—but ever conspicuous for the woman of good taste—is the so-called Pompadour veil, a wide and deep creation of the printed chiffon and fine net. The entire surface of the chiffon is covered with a floral pattern—usually a rambling Pompadour rose.

The individual broth dishes now offered in the shops are more "all around useful" little pieces than they might at first be taken for. Any kind of soup or puree can be daintily served if the pantry boasts half a dozen of these; they are equally useful for individual portions of vegetables, etc.

A pretty photo frame for a man's desk or chiffonier takes the shape of a wee horseshoe of silver or gunmetal. This is arranged upright after the manner of an arch, and from it depends the little oval frame of thin metal in which the likeness is encaused.
